A key focus of the discussions was Vobiss' expansion plans to bolster its extensive backbone and enhance national coverage, with particular emphasis on the deployment of Fibre-To-The-Home (FTTH) and Last Mile solutions which are designed to increase connectivity and provide high-speed, reliable internet access to rural and underserved regions.

Rev. Ing. Edmund Yirenkyi Fianko acknowledged Vobiss' continuous growth, noting that the NCA is highly impressed with the company's commitment to improving telecommunications infrastructure. This recognition, he stated, is indicative of the proactive approach Vobiss has adopted to address the connectivity challenges faced by many Ghanaians.
