The exercise formed part of the national effort to promote cleanliness, environmental responsibility and public health following the recent floods that affected parts of the country.

At the Head Office, the exercise was led by the Director General and his deputies, who joined staff in cleaning the office premises and surrounding areas. Staff swept the compound, cleared gutters, collected refuse and tidied the general working environment.

Staff were provided with cleaning tools and materials, including shovels, wheelbarrows and other equipment for the exercise. They could be seen in masks, gloves and appropriate cleaning attire as they worked across the premises.

The exercise was carried out in a lively and patriotic atmosphere, with staff singing patriotic songs as they worked together to keep the environment clean.

Across the Zonal Offices, staff also undertook similar clean-up activities within their office premises and surrounding communities, demonstrating the Authority's commitment to supporting national initiatives and promoting civic responsibility.

The NCA remains committed to maintaining a clean, safe and healthy working environment, while contributing to national efforts aimed at building cleaner communities across the country.
